Resource of the Month

Why Does God Let Bad Things Happen by David Jeremiah explores the question of why a loving and all-powerful God allows suffering and hardship in the world. It explains the biblical perspective on pain, pointing to human free will, the effects of sin, and how adversity can shape spiritual growth and deepen faith. The guide also offers encouragement, Scripture, and practical ways to trust God and find hope during difficult seasons. Click the image to access the link.

This Month's Devotion

Stewardship is ultimately about recognizing that everything we have—our time, talents, and resources—comes from God and is entrusted to us to use for His glory. When we live with open hands, we remember that His grace is the true source of our provision and strength, not our own efforts. As 1 Peter 4:10 reminds us, “Each of you should use whatever gift you have received to serve others, as faithful stewards of God’s grace in its various forms,” and 2 Corinthians 9:8 encourages us that “God is able to bless you abundantly, so that in all things at all times, having all that you need, you will abound in every good work.” May we respond to His grace with gratitude, generosity, and a heart willing to serve.

The Teacher and the Preacher

The Real St. Patrick

The real roots of St. Patrick's Day trace back to Saint Patrick, a missionary who shared the gospel in Ireland and helped spread Christianity there. Rather than just a cultural or festive holiday, it can be a meaningful day for modern Christians to reflect on bold faith, obedience, and the call to share Christ with others. We can celebrate by praying for missionaries, studying Scripture, serving our communities, and thanking God for the people who have shaped our own faith journeys. As Jesus reminds us in Matthew 28:19, "Therefore go and make disciples of all nations," this day can be a simple but powerful opportunity to refocus on living out that mission in our own lives.
